Panel 1: The Discovery

Rasu, a young inventor with goggles on his forehead, stumbles upon a dormant, glowing robotic entity inside a forgotten, vine-choked corner of the abandoned railway station.

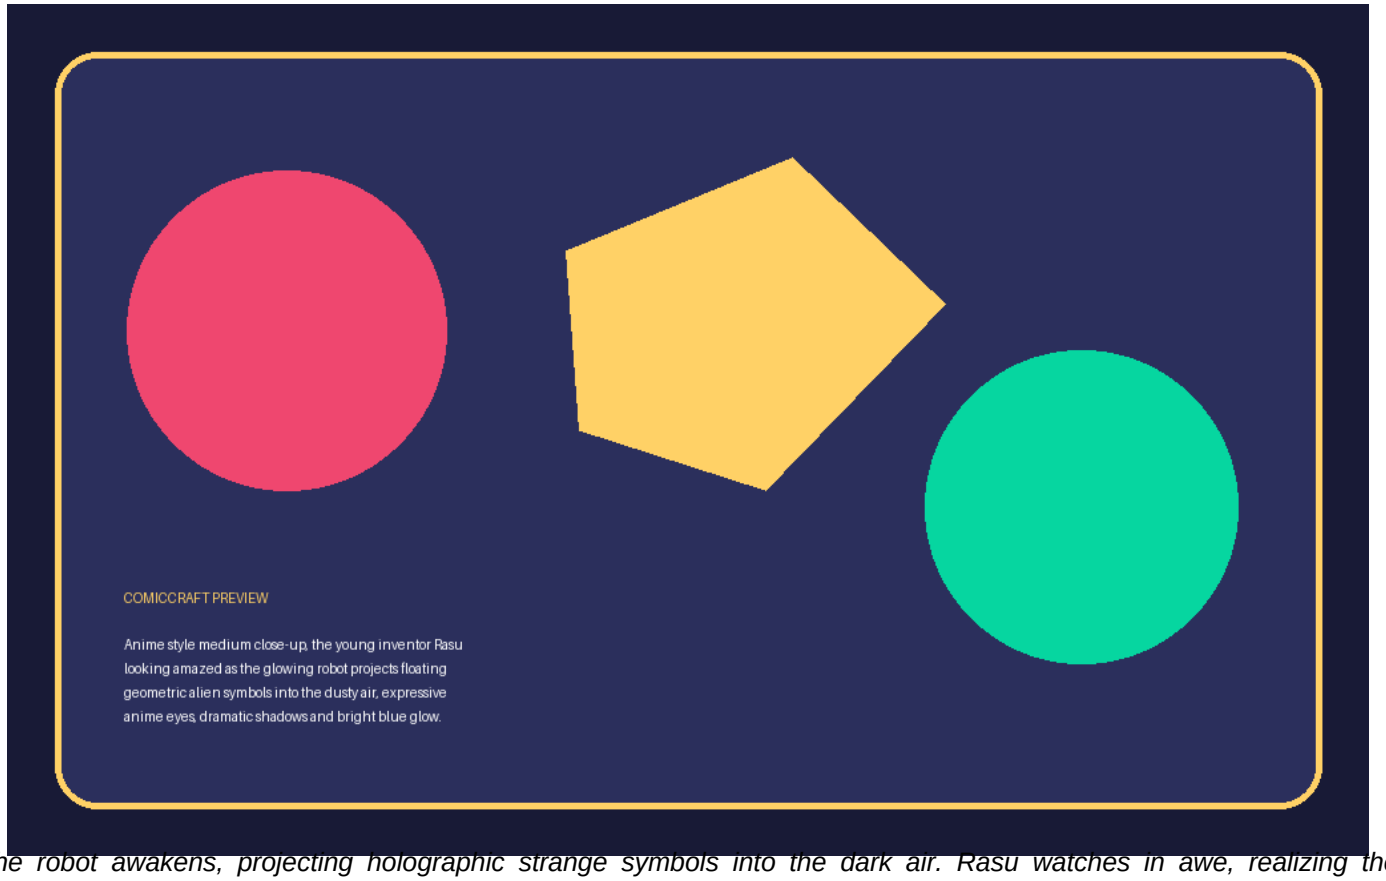

The Discovery

CAPTION: Dust motes dance in the heavy silence of the forgotten terminal.

NARRATION: Deep within the skeletal remains of the old railway station, time had long since stopped. Among the twisted vines and rusted tracks, a faint, rhythmic pulse caught Rasu's attention. Beneath a shroud of moss, he uncovered a relic of a forgotten age, breathing with an impossible, celestial light.

DIALOGUE: "Is... is this what I think it is?"

Panel 2: The Language of Light

The robot awakens, projecting holographic strange symbols into the dark air. Rasu watches in awe, realizing the machine has lost its memory and is asking for his help.

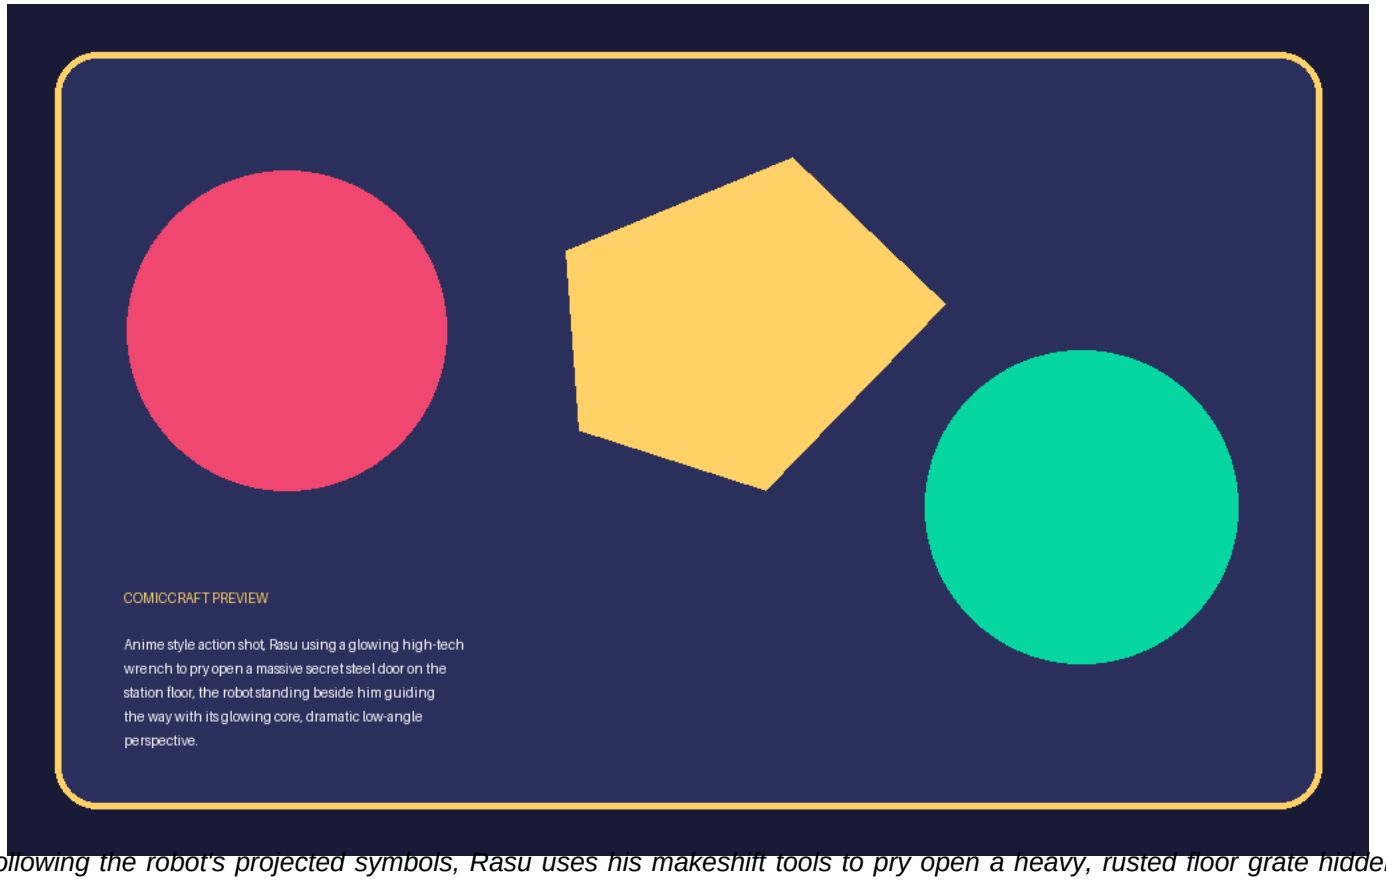

The Language of Light

CAPTION: The hum of awakening machinery reverberates through the damp air.

NARRATION: With a sudden surge of kinetic energy, the dormant titan stirred from its eternal slumber. Streams of luminescent geometric data fractured the darkness, painting the crumbling walls with ancient syntax. Rasu watched, breathless, as the machine whispered its silent plea into the void.

DIALOGUE: "You're... you're asking for me?"

Panel 3: The Hidden Path

Following the robot's projected symbols, Rasu uses his makeshift tools to pry open a heavy, rusted floor grate hidden beneath the old railway platform, revealing a deep descent.

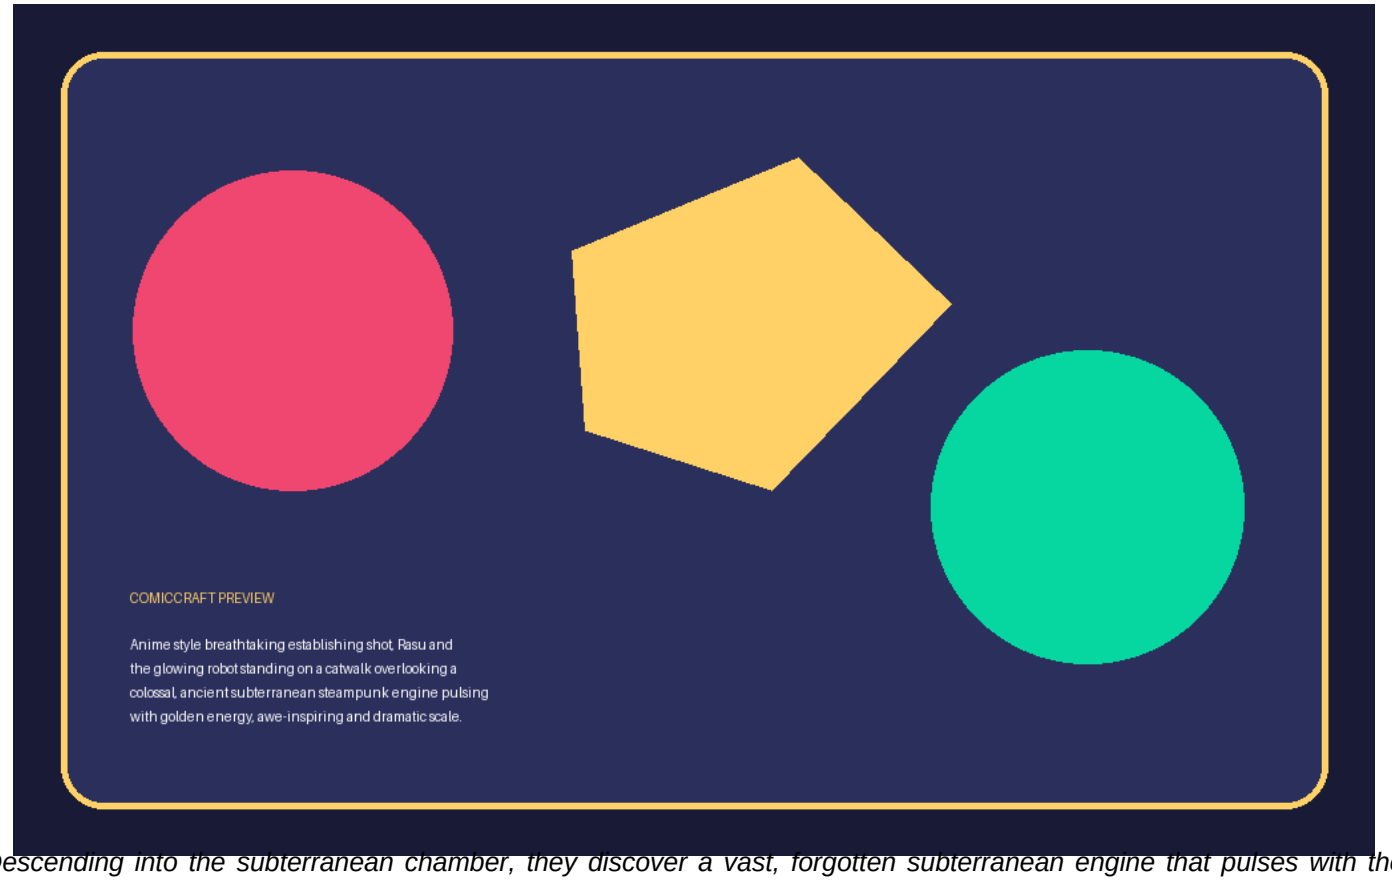

The Hidden Path

CAPTION: Sparks shower against the cold concrete as rusted iron yields.

NARRATION: Guided by the cascading projections, Rasu dropped to his knees at the edge of the rusted platform. With trembling hands and his makeshift tools, he attacked the heavy floor grate that had sealed away history for generations. The path forward was finally open.

DIALOGUE: "Hold the light steady... almost got it!"

Panel 4: Heart of the Machine

Descending into the subterranean chamber, they discover a vast, forgotten subterranean engine that pulses with the city's very life force, realizing the robot is its eternal guardian.

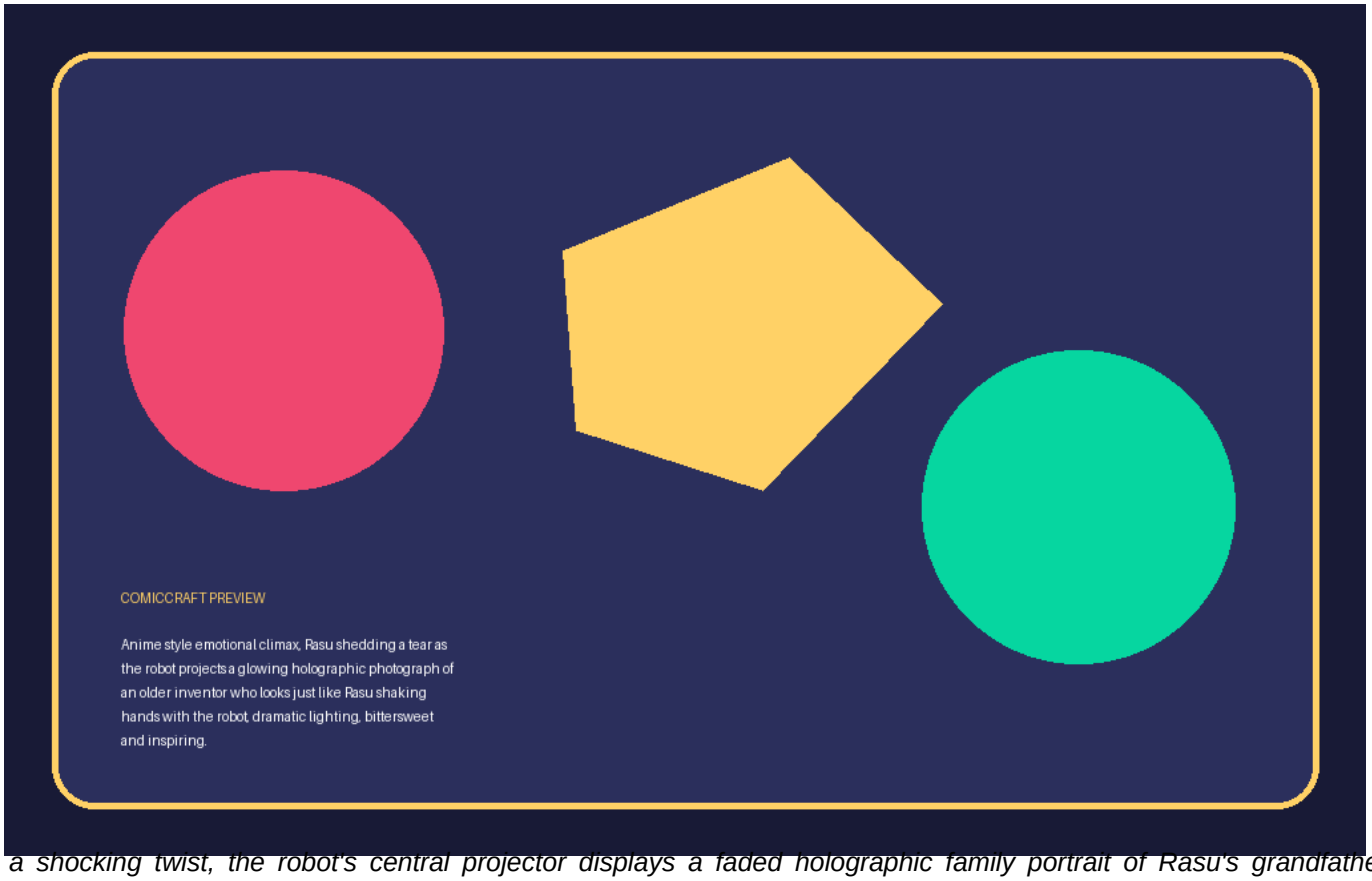

Heart of the Machine

CAPTION: A breathless hush hangs over the subterranean abyss.

NARRATION: They descended past the world above into a cavernous vault untouched by time. Before them lay the colossal, beating heart of the metropolis, a magnificent engine of brass and starlight. The silent guardian stood tall beside him, bound eternally to this sacred core.

DIALOGUE: "It's... it's keeping the whole city alive."

Panel 5: The Ancestral Link

In a shocking twist, the robot's central projector displays a faded holographic family portrait of Rasu's grandfather, revealing that Rasu was genetically chosen to inherit the station's future.

The Ancestral Link

CAPTION: A single tear catches the brilliant azure glow of the projector.

NARRATION: The machine's core flared once more, casting a familiar, ghostly image against the cavern wall. There, frozen in faded holographic light, was his grandfather standing proudly beside the very same metal giant. Rasu finally understood that his journey was written long before he was born.

DIALOGUE: "Grandfather... you left this all behind for me."