Panel 1: The Discovery

Rasu, a young inventor with goggles on his head, steps into the dark, abandoned railway station holding a flickering flashlight. Before him, half-buried in old railroad debris, lies a sleek, metallic robot emitting a soft, pulsing blue glow.

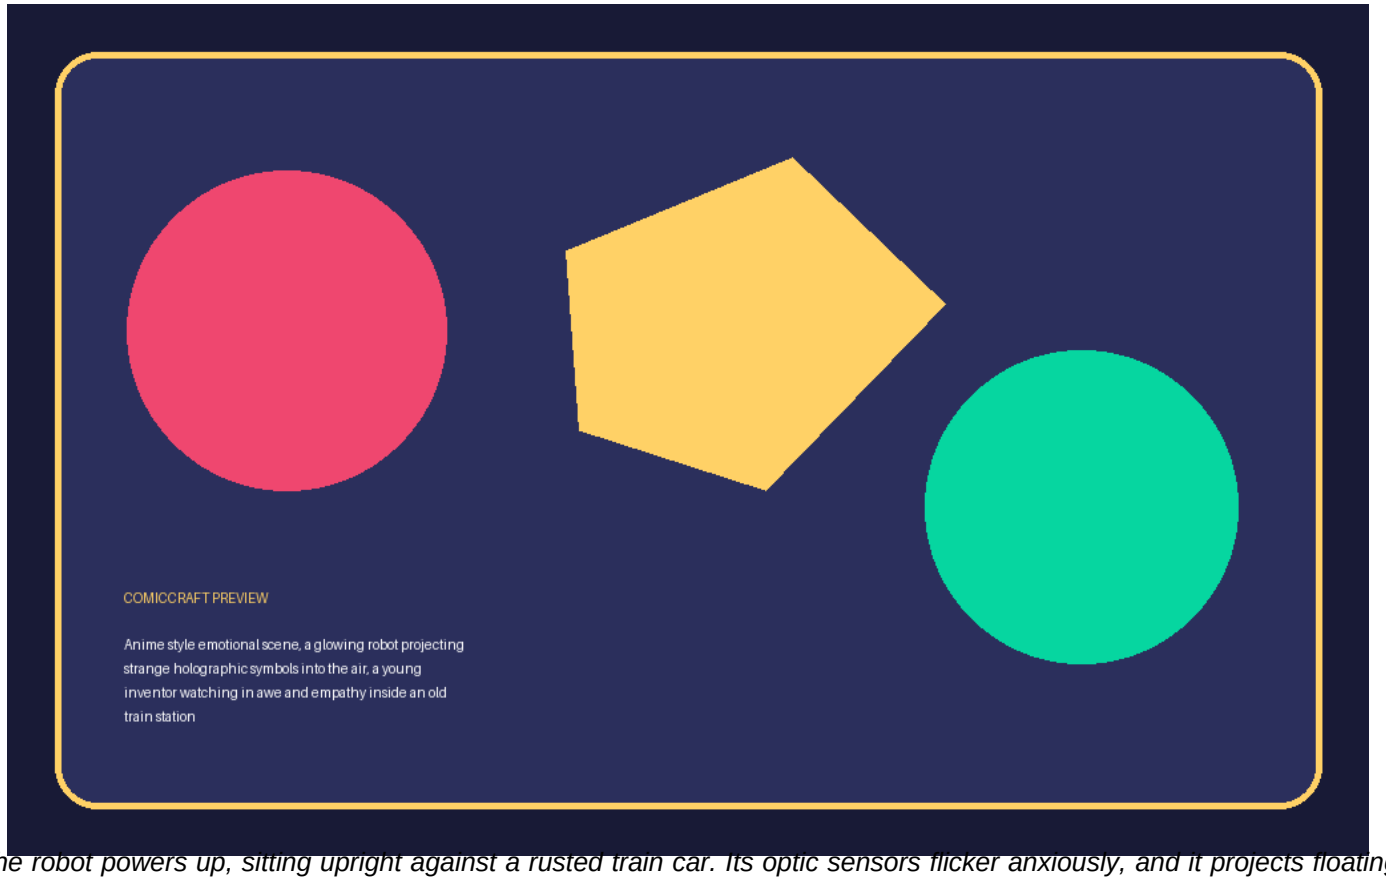

The Discovery

CAPTION: Dust motes dance in the cold air of the forgotten terminal.

NARRATION: For years, the old station was dismissed as a dead end of rusted steel and forgotten memories. But Rasu's instruments had picked up a faint, impossible frequency pulsing from the dark. Pushing aside the heavy debris, his breath catches at the sight of smooth, alien metal.

DIALOGUE: RASU: "It... it's actually real. You've been down here all this time."

Panel 2: Broken Memories

The robot powers up, sitting upright against a rusted train car. Its optic sensors flicker anxiously, and it projects floating holographic symbols into the air between them, unable to speak with words.

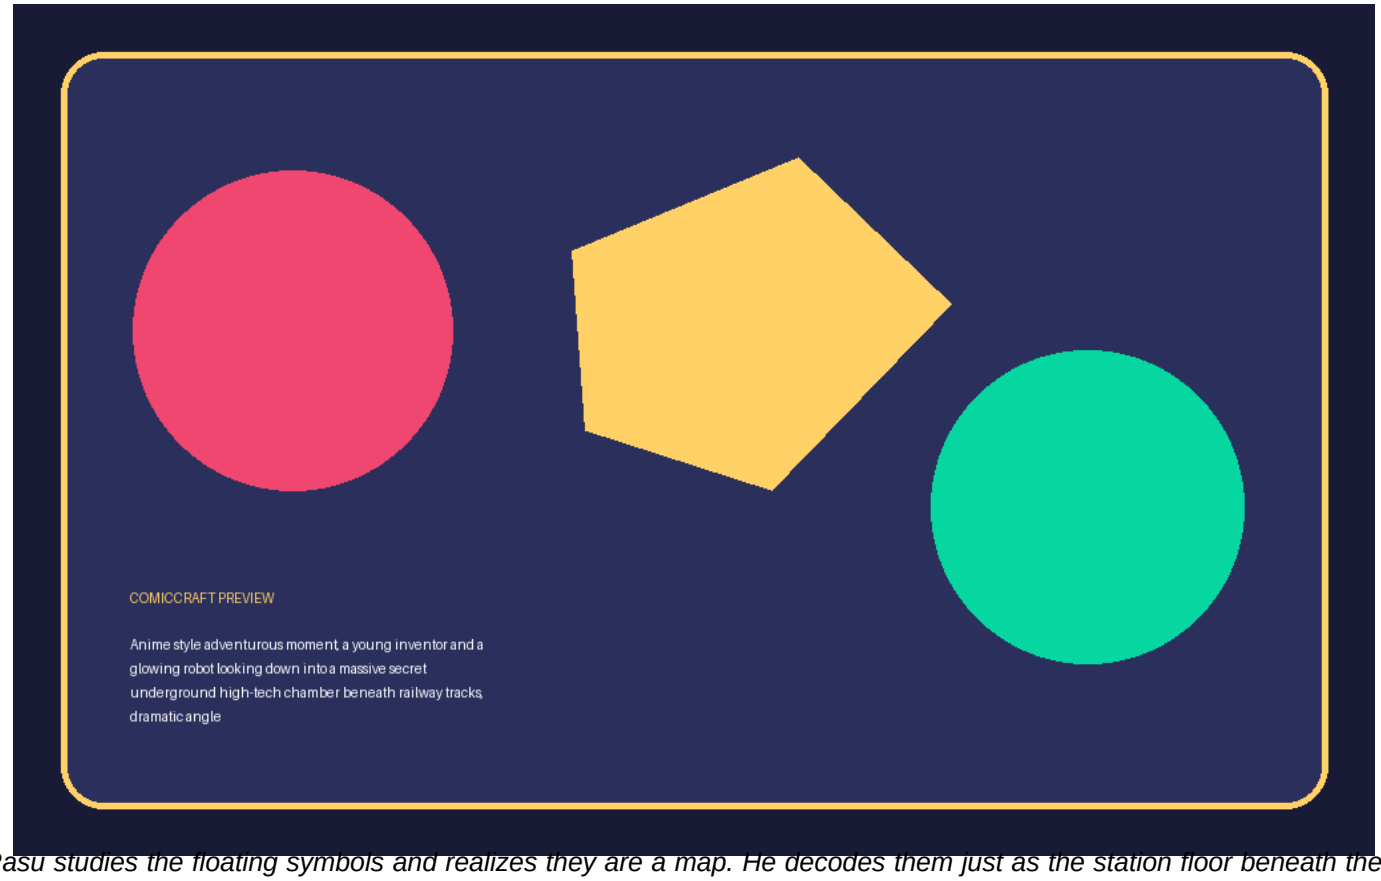

Broken Memories

CAPTION: A low hum vibrates through the damp concrete floor.

NARRATION: The machine stirs to life, its internal mechanisms grinding softly as it sits upright. Unable to voice its distress, it pours its fragmented consciousness into the damp air. Streams of glowing, geometric light paint a desperate story in the shadows.

DIALOGUE: RASU: "Easy. Don't force your circuits... I'm listening. Show me what you remember."

Panel 3: The Hidden Pathway

Rasu studies the floating symbols and realizes they are a map. He decodes them just as the station floor beneath them gives way, revealing a massive, high-tech underground chamber filled with ancient machinery.

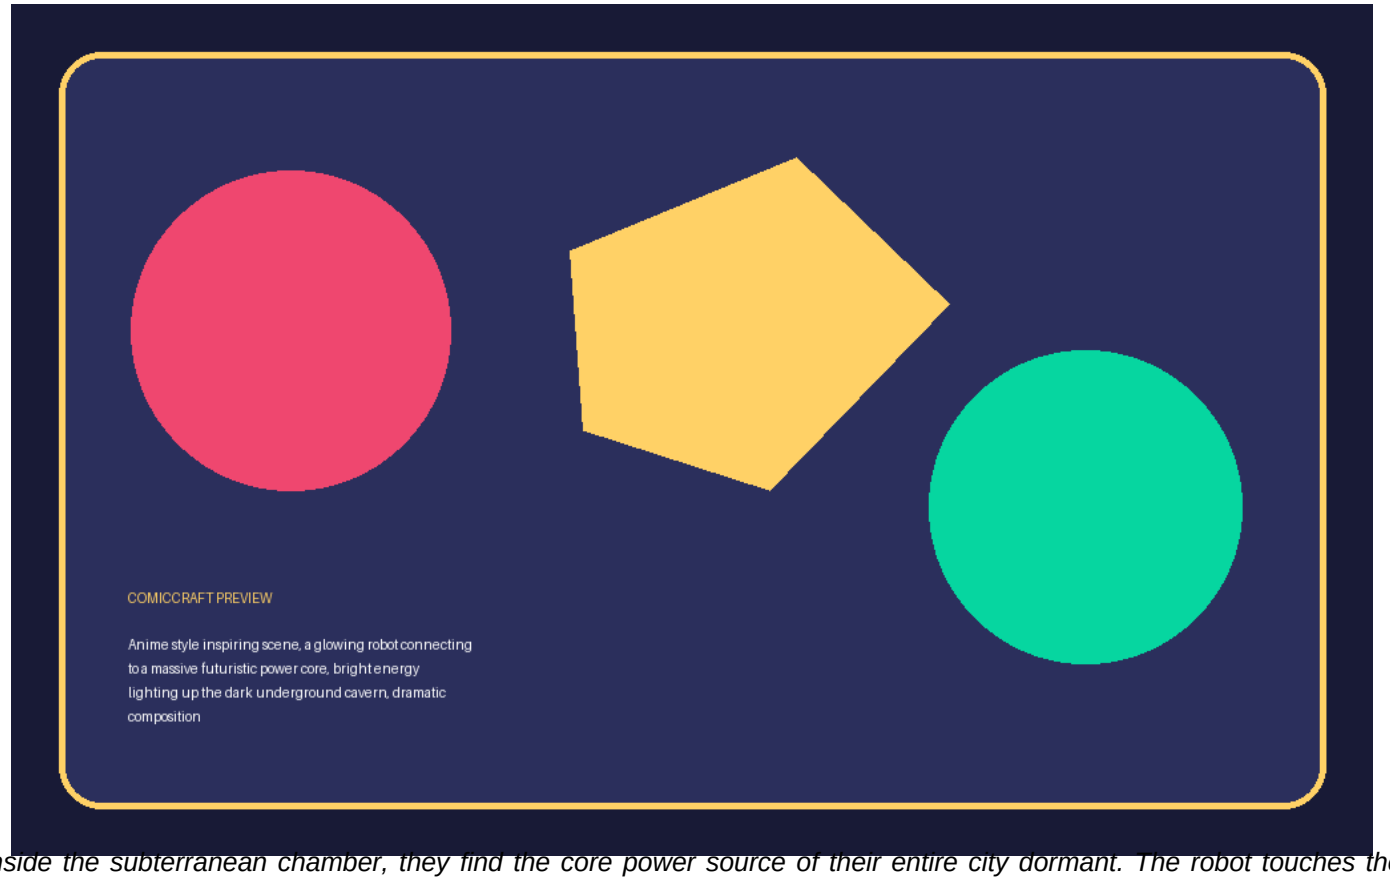

The Hidden Pathway

CAPTION: The ground groans, surrendering secrets long buried beneath the rails.

NARRATION: Rasu's fingers fly across the air, rapidly translating the shifting holographic glyphs into a coordinate key. Just as the final symbol locks into place, the rusted floorboards shatter beneath their weight. They plunge into a breathtaking expanse of forgotten technology.

DIALOGUE: RASU: "Hold on! The floor is giving way-wait, this isn't a collapse. It's a gateway."

Panel 4: Heart of the City

Inside the subterranean chamber, they find the core power source of their entire city dormant. The robot touches the console, and energy surges back through the veins of the machine, ready to revolutionize their world.

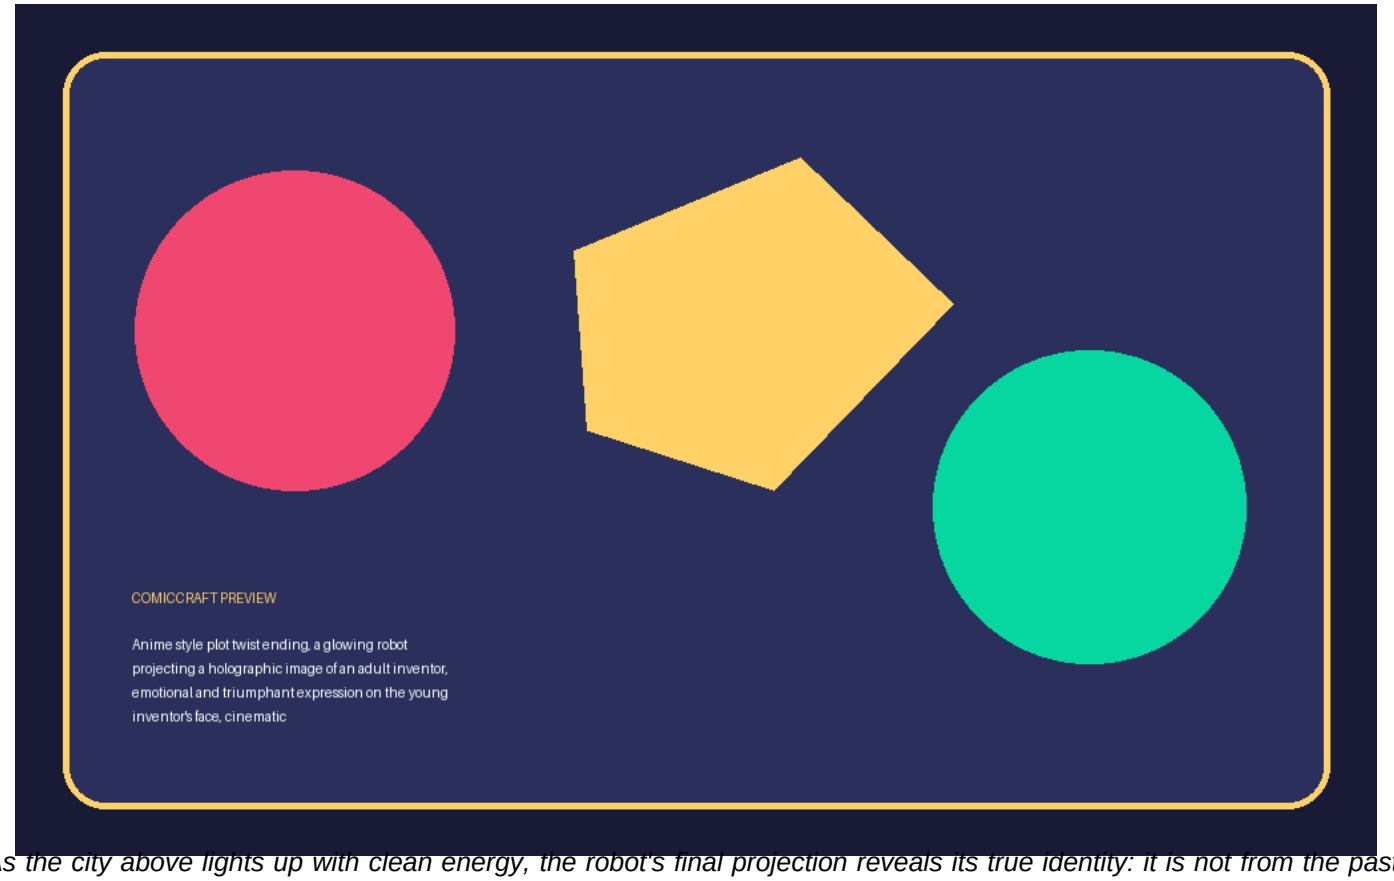

Heart of the City

CAPTION: A cathedral of forgotten power awakens from its slumber.

NARRATION: They stand in the beating heart of a subterranean empire, surrounded by colossal dynamos and dormant conduits. The robot steps forward, placing its metallic hand upon the central terminal. A blinding wave of turquoise energy surges upward, feeding the city above.

DIALOGUE: RASU: "Look at the energy readings... It's drawing power straight from the Earth's core."

Panel 5: The Architect's Return

As the city above lights up with clean energy, the robot's final projection reveals its true identity: it is not from the past, but a guardian sent back in time by Rasu himself to save the future.

The Architect's Return

CAPTION: A brilliant cascade of light shatters the darkness of the cavern.

NARRATION: As the skyline of the surface city blinks awake with brilliant, clean light, the robot projects one final, overriding file. Rasu stares in stunned silence at the face of the adult projected before him-his own face, weathered by time and carrying a silent plea.

DIALOGUE: RASU: "That... that's me. You didn't come from the past. You came back to save us."